COLUMBUS LIBRARY BOOK SALE 10/12/13

The book sale was an event put on by the Columbus Public Library. The library is huge and we go there sometimes so we were glad to help. They were raising money for the new French doors on the meeting room and the parking lot they are building. I helped carry books to the pavilion and set the books up. Afterward I bought some treats and a really cool pair of earrings to help support them. I learned that the books they didn't sell they will donate to a thrift shop.

I went to Shop with Cops. When I got there the leaders asked if I wanted to be a craft helper. I helped the kids make a foam magnet. I felt good helping make the kids holidays better. I was glad that so many people were there and they all wanted to help the kids. It was also nice hear how excited the kids were about the presents they got for their families.
